Excerpt of pertinent information :

A reliable Rumanian source in Paris has received information from the opponents of the present Rumanian regime in Bucharest, telling how discouraged they felt by the news which has reached them that the Rumanian National Council, organized in Washington, is breaking up and that this center of Rumanian resistance to Communism has proven unsuccessful. News has reached Bucharest that General Radescu, President of the Rumanian National Council, is in possession of documents which are compromising his political opponents and that he hesitates to publish them lest they injure Rumanian interests. It is also known in Bucharest that the Rumanian National Council is divided into two factions because of questions of finances connected with two important Rumanian businessmen who continue to fight each other abroad and influence the Rumanian politicians in this sense. Mr. Cretzianu is said to have asked General Radescu to submit his resignation from the National Council. . .

This is all the pertinent information on subject in this document.
